The combination of enable.me’s core services & investment advice is the perfect union – clients will receive high quality, personalised planning and well-structured diversified investment options.

Nicki has an exceptional professional pedigree in the financial services industry built over almost 30 years, making her the perfect person to lead enable.me investments.

Nicki’s experience spans institutional equities, investment banking, private wealth, and personal financial coaching across the UK, Europe, and New Zealand - including 8 years as VP of Institutional Equities at Morgan Stanley in London.

Nicki’s experience has taught her that there is plenty of misinformation out there about building wealth.

“It’s not created by the buy and sell mentality you see in the movies”, she says.

“Emotional decisions driven by what you hear on the news, from your neighbour or around the water cooler tend to trigger wealth-decreasing decisions”.

enable.me’s financial strategy & coaching, combined with enable.me investment’s portfolio strategies, allow you to avoid being reactive, because you’re confident your plan is on track.

That requires having a personalised strategy in place that’s crafted to your needs, considers your goals, your risk tolerance and capacity, and can be adapted as economic conditions or your situation change.

That’s where Nicki and the enable.me investments team excel - in providing advice and strategies that allow you to build your wealth with confidence.

In partnership with your enable.me financial coach, there is no ‘set and forget’ here – close attention is paid to the triggers in your personal situation that would prompt a reassessment of your overarching investment strategy.
